Women's mentoring schemes

Universitas Sriwijaya, through its Career Development Center (CDC), plays a vital role in supporting students facing challenges, whether academic or non-academic in nature. The university's commitment to student welfare is evident in the thoughtful schemes and programs offered through the CDC. For students struggling academically, specialized academic assistance and resources are provided, ensuring that every student has the opportunity to succeed in their studies. Moreover, for non-academic issues, the CDC offers valuable guidance, counseling, and various support services to help students navigate challenges related to their personal well-being, mental health, or other life circumstances. By addressing both academic and non-academic concerns, Universitas Sriwijaya ensures a holistic and nurturing environment, fostering the overall development and success of its students. The initiatives undertaken by the CDC exemplify the university's dedication to empowering students and promoting their overall growth and well-being.
